Review:

"Gaia's Garden takes you on a moving musical journey through the idyllic environments of Mother Earth. Dunster has drawn from a worldwide network of talented musicians playing an eclectic array of world instruments to create an album that connects the listener to the beauty and diversity of our natural world. A must for your collection!"

— Honey Harris, KBAC Radio

Artist Biography:

Chinmaya Dunster is a composer, filmmaker and active conservationist. He works to raise awareness about the environment in India through his band 'Green Ragas', playing multimedia concerts around the subcontinent. His films on the people inhabiting India's last wildernesses have been shown at film festivals around the world. His fund-raising work with the Himalayan NGO, Avani, has brought solar lights to a hundred families in the remote village of Jhuni in India's Kumaon district.

Album Description:

"This album contains my musical expression of feelings evoked by some of Earth's most beautiful places. Gaia (the Earth Goddess of the ancient Greeks) is a metaphor for the interconnectedness of all life on this planet. Her garden of water, sunlight, rock and air supports us all. This music is a tribute of love to Her."

— Chinmaya Dunster
